SURF CAM LAUNCHED AT THE POINT LONSDALE BACK BEACH

Thanks to Coastalwatch and the Point Lonsdale Surf Life Saving Club, constant high quality video footage of Point Lonsdale's Back Beach is now available to anybody with internet access.

Club Secretary, Mr. Matthew Ponsford announced the launch of the new service this week.

"Coastalwatch is an Australian based website, which provides a range of services such as Surf Cams, Swell Forecasting and news services for Surf Lifesavers, Surfers and recreational beach users across Australia, from their website".

"At present there are five Victorian coastal locations that have high quality footage streamed via Broadband Internet connections, including Point Lonsdale, Jan Juc, Fairhaven, Portsea and Woolamai".

"The camera allows people to see real time images of what surf, beach and weather conditions are like, without having to leave their home. It also allows for some level of remote surveillance for our members and other authorities".

"It's easy to access this service :

The surf cam can be accessed from the Club's website – www.pointlonsdaleslsc.asn.au , then follow the links to the Coastalwatch website, where further directions and information can be obtained".
